DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-39 are presented for examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.
- 3. Claims 1-39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Fletcher et al. (hereafter Fletcher), US pub. No.2003/0135628 A1.

As to claim 1, Fletcher discloses an arrangement for web services management or integration, comprising:

a transaction adapter module for receiving client requests (using service requester 1 fig.1) in a client-specific protocol and having one or more transaction adapters, each of said transaction adapters for translating at least a portion of said client request to a predetermined protocol; and a query adapter module (1 fig.1) for communication with a set of query services and having one or more query adapters, each of said query adapters for translating at least a portion of said client request from said predetermined protocol to a service-specific protocol; wherein said transaction adapter module and said query adapter module are modularly interfaceable with a service broker (3 fig.1) adapted to direct queries to said query services (service requester can search for a particular service requested from a user, see fig.1, [0008] to [009] and [0039]), and wherein said predetermined protocol allows said transaction adapter module, said query adapter module and said service broker to be decoupled, thereby allowing dynamic loading of adapters to at least one of said transaction adapter module and said query adapter module (see figs. 3A, 3B, abstract, [0044] to [0049]).

As to claim 2, Fletcher discloses wherein said transaction adapter module is adapted to isolate a guery within said client request (see [0052] to [0056]).

As to claim 3, Fletcher discloses wherein a WSDL definition is used to present said isolated query to said service broker (see [0051] to [0052]).

As to claim 4, Fletcher discloses wherein said predetermined protocol is XML-based (see [0072]).

As to claim 5, Fletcher discloses wherein said predetermined protocol is SOAP (see [0078] to [0079]).

As to claims 6-8, Fletcher discloses wherein said transaction adapter module is adapted to apply a set of policies to said client requests, said set of policies is predetermined and said set of policies is dynamically configurable (see [0062] to [0065] and [0072] to [0074]).

As to claims 9-11, Fletcher discloses said set of policies includes client authentication, said set of policies includes security management and said set of policies includes performance management (see [0062] to [0065] and [0072] to [0074]).

As to claims 12-14, Fletcher discloses said set of policies includes fault management, said set of policies includes resource management and said set of policies includes customer management (see [0047] to [0049] and [0072] to [0074]).

As to claims 15-17, Fletcher discloses said query adapter module is adapted to apply a set of policies to said client requests, said set of policies is predetermined and said set of policies is dynamically configurable (see [0062] to [0065] and [0072] to [0074]).

As to claims 18-20, Fletcher discloses said service broker is adapted to apply a set of policies to said client requests, said set of policies is predetermined and said set of policies is dynamically configurable (see fig.5A, [0058] to [0062]).

As to claims 21-23, Fletcher discloses said transaction adapter module and said query adapter module are further modularly interfaceable with other adapter modules, said transaction adapter module comprises: a director module for determining the client-specific protocol and directing the message to a corresponding adapter and said transaction adapter module further comprises: a policy module for determining and applying policies corresponding to at least one of a client, a transaction and a service (see [0044] to [0049]).

As to claim 24. Fletcher discloses a graphical user interface for allowing a user to reconfigure at least one of said transaction adapter module and said query adapter module (defining web services to users, see [0047] to [0051] and [0061]).

As to claim 25, Fletcher discloses a web services arrangement, comprising: a transaction adapter module for receiving client requests (using service requester 1 fig. 1) and having one or more transaction adapters; and a query adapter module for communication with a set of guery services and having one or more query adapters; and a service broker (3 fig.1) adapted to receive queries from said transaction adapter module and to access service resources at least partly through said query adapter module (service requester can search for a particular service requested from a user, see fig.1, [0008] to [009] and [0039]), wherein said service broker includes a mapping of each service to one or more operational nodes corresponding to one or more operations required to perform said service (see figs. 3A, 3B, abstract, [0044] to [0049]).

As to claims 26-28, Fletcher discloses at least one node corresponds to another service, a graphical user interface adapted to allow a user to reconfigure said mapping and said graphical user interface is further adapted to allow-a user to reconfigure policies (see [0062] to [0065] and [0072] to [0074]).

As to claim 29, Fletcher discloses said policies includes client authentication (checking user profiles, see fig.5A, [0060] to [0061]).

As to claims 30-32, Fletcher discloses said policies includes security management, said policies includes performance management and said policies includes fault management (see [0062] to [0065] and [0072] to [0074]).

As to claims 33-35, Fletcher discloses said policies includes resource management, said policies includes customer management and said mapping is optimized for minimum cost (see [0062] to [0065] and [0072] to [0074]).

As to claims 36 and 37, Fletcher discloses said mapping is optimized using embedded logic and said mapping is optimized using artificial intelligence (see [0062] to [0065] and [0072] to [0074]).

As to claims 38 and 39, Fletcher discloses said mapping is optimized using a rules-based engine and a graphical user interface adapted to allow a user to reconfigure business process flow management (see [0062] to [0065] and [0072] to [0074]).
